Looking at the past, present and future of adventure tourism, Adventure Tourism: the new frontier examines the product, the adventure tourist profile, and issues such as supply, geography and sustainability. International case studies are used to illustrate these issues, including: Gorilla watching holidays, Trekking on Mount Everest, Diving holidays, and Outward Bound packages. Analysis of the development and nature of adventure tourism accompanies these studies, ensuring that the title is useful both for undergraduate and postgraduate students of tourism and for professionals involved in managing adventure tourism enterprises. There is also a companion website with additional cases, which can be found at www.bh.com/companions/0750651865.

The Journal of a Lonely Exile

From one of the world's most passionately engaged and acclaimed literary citizens comes Writing with Intent, the largest collection to date of Margaret Atwood's nonfiction, ranging from 1983 to 2005. Composed of autobiographical essays, cultural commentary, book reviews, and introductory pieces to great works of literature, this is the award-winning author's first book-length nonfiction publication in twenty years. Arranged chronologically, these writings display the development of Atwood's worldview as the world around her changes. Included are the Booker Prize -- winning author's reviews of books by John Updike, Italo Calvino, Toni Morrison, and others, as well as essays in which she remembers herself reading Virginia Woolf's To the Lighthouse at age nineteen, and discusses the influence of George Orwell's 1984 on the writing of The Handmaid's Tale. Atwood's New York Times Book Review piece that helped make Orhan Pamuk's Snow a bestseller can be found here, as well as a look back on a family trip to Afghanistan just before the Soviet invasion, and her "Letter to America," written after September 11, 2001. The insightful and memorable pieces in this book serve as a testament to Atwood's career, reminding readers why she is one of the most esteemed writers of our time.

Have you heard about people who are nourished by light (chi/energy)? People who don't need to take physical food in order to feel satiety? Have you heard of people having fabulous discoveries in the spiritual science? As we traveled and met many of them, and also practiced this lifestyle, we now present you a new perspective and answers on how a shift in consciousness is possible. This book is meant to tell the story of a possibility, and those who are opened to this possibility can find here some information on how they can make a gradual transition to a lighter diet, but also to a higher Consciousness. "As I traveled to many countries, being a speaker in all the pranic gatherings around the world, today I am beginning to write about the wonders of these journeys. I wish you all benefit from these writings, as my heart pours into them.

Blessings!" Eltrayan

Amnesty International Report 2008

This publication contains the proceedings of two UNWTO conferences on "Tourism: a Tool for Sustainable Development in Transitional Economies", held in Belgrade on 20-21 June 2005, and

"Impact of European Union Enlargement on Tourism Development in Europe", held in Vilnius, on 1-2 March 2006. There is an overlap between economies in transition and the group of countries that joined the European Union in 2004 and, from the perspective of tourism development, a large group of European countries share similar challenges and opportunities. While Europe is the region that receives the largest number of international tourists and registers the highest amount of receipts from international tourism, there is a great difference between traditional destinations with a long history of tourism development and the countries that recovered independence after the collapse of the Soviet Union. Some countries already undertook major reforms in their political and economic spheres while others are still addressing structural issues inherited from the past. Tourism contributes positively to European integration and at the same time its success depends on the development and modernisation of several economic and social sectors.

Opinionated, unconventional Ayla Hawkins isn't the type to use blackmail, but sometimes a girl has to stand up for what's right. So when she catches Mr. Perfect Luke Pressler doing something decidedly un-perfect, Ayla's got the dirt she needs to get Luke on her side—in the form of her new fake boyfriend. One mistake. All Luke wanted was a night to goof off, to blow off steam. The next thing he knew, he was pretending to date Ayla Hawkins. But his little blackmailer turns out to be kind. Honorable. And just the breath of fresh air he didn't even realize he was suffocating for. But Luke and Ayla come from different worlds, and once the terms of their agreement end, their fauxmance will, too. Disclaimer: This Entangled Teen Crush book features adult language, sexual situations, and plenty of girl power. Reading may result in swooning, laughing, and looking for a Luke of your own.

This book discusses the tourism-climate system and provides a sound basis for those interested in tourism management and climate change mitigation, adaptation and policy. In the first three chapters, the book provides a general overview of the relationships between tourism and climate change and illustrates the complexity in four case studies that are relevant to the wide audience of tourism stakeholders. In the following seven chapters detailed discussion of the tourism and climate systems, greenhouse gas accounting for tourism, mitigation, climate risk management and comprehensive tourism-climate policies are provided. This book compiles and critically analyses the latest knowledge in this field of research and seeks to make it accessible to tourism practitioners and other stakeholders involved in tourism or climate change.

A new translation of the only novel by lauded Romanian literary critic Matei Călinescu. An NYRB Classics Original. Ugly, unkempt, a haunter of low dives who begs for a living and lives on the street, Zacharias Lichter exists for all that in a state of unlikely rapture. After being engulfed by a divine flame as a teenager, Zacharias has devoted his days to doing nothing at all—apart, that is, from composing the odd poem he immediately throws away and consorting with a handful of stray friends: Poldy, for example, the catatonic alcoholic whom Zacharias considers a brilliant philosopher, or another more vigorous barfly whose prolific output of pornographic verses has won him the nickname of the Poet. Zacharias is a kind of holy fool, but one whose foolery calls in question both social convention and conventional wisdom. He is as much skeptic as ecstatic, affirming above all the truth of perplexity. This of course is what makes him a permanent outrage to the powers that be, be they reactionary or revolutionary, and to all other self-appointed champions of morality who are blind to their own absurdity. The only thing that scares Zacharias is that all-purpose servant of conformity, the psychiatrist. This Romanian classic, originally published under the brutally dictatorial Ceaușescu regime, whose censors initially let it pass because they couldn't make head or tail of it, is as delicious and telling an assault on the modern world order as ever.

By the middle of the century, men were prompted to disdain the decadent and gaudy colors of the pre-Revolutionary period and wear unrelievedly black frock coats suitable to the manly and serious world of commerce. Their wives and daughters, on the other hand, adorned themselves in bright colors and often uncomfortable and impractical laces and petticoats, to signal the status of their family.

Two cousins ride through the Wild West to track down another cousin who has absconded with their inheritance—a sizeable fortune. One stormy night in the Rocky Mountains the two adventurers meet the famous blood brothers Old Shatterhand the frontiersman and Winnetou the Apache chief. During the night the adventure develops and they come face to face with Tokvi-Kava, a merciless Comanche chief. The cousins join Old Shatterhand and Winnetou on a ghostly night train ride to assist the railroaders in foiling the Comanche's attack on their camp. They are successful and soon the cousins and their newly found friends are on their way to Santa Fe in pursuit of the inheritance. But the Comanche are seeking revenge for their defeat. The Bonanza of Hoaka, located at the Estrecho de Cuarzo and said to contain immeasurable gold treasures, becomes the place for the final showdown between the marauding Comanche and the group of white prairiemen—but the Bonanza is not what it seems.

Under the title Becoming within Being, Constantin Noica, one of Romania's foremost philosophers, brings together two essays, one dating from around 1950, the other from 1980. The two works have in common the idea of becoming within Being, first as it results from the history of philosophy, secondly as an attempt to reconstruct the science of Being, ontology.
