If you could choose a world without loneliness, without shame, grief, misery, or feeling of any kind, would you, if it also meant that you lost the simple pleasure of a picnic on a sunny day or the joy of falling in love? Would the allure of a comfortable numbness prove too tempting to resist? Could you choose between feeling pain and not feeling anything, ever again? A girl is caught in a world where this choice is fiercely contested. In the cross-fire between the Red and White empires, the feeling and the unfeeling, each bent on the other's destruction, the girl must choose between emotion and oblivion, joining the ranks with the Reds as they fight to resist the Whites, but all the while struggling with her own desperate ambivalence. All That Is Red is a story of survival and a journey through the human condition, revealing how the intimate euphoria of pain can sometimes be all we have to remind us that we are alive. Anna Caltabiano is fifteen years old. She was born in British colonial Hong Kong to a Japanese mother and an Italian-American father, before moving to Palo Alto, California; the mecca of futurism. Her writing explores and exposes an adolescent dystopia in which accepted traditions, religions, cultures and communities have been eroded, resulting in a lost generation consumed by social apathy and self-loathing which has found solace through electronic connections. Unsettling, engaging and surprisingly erudite, All That Is Red is a remarkably assured debut from an ascending literary star.

I had just moved into my first apartment and finally felt like I was free. I was holding down a job and handling everything on my own enjoying my new place until one day I found out I wasn't the only one enjoying it. Somehow and somehow I was being watched. But how and by whom? I would soon find out that there were cameras that I couldn't see in my apartment not by word of mouth but by watching the daily news and learning from lips I was getting from my friends on social media sites like Facebook, Snapchat, and Instagram. And what started as a small joke between close friends soon spilled over into the entertainment world from music to sports and even daytime shows until it eventually reached the head of our country, the president of the United States.
