Pain, which is caused by an unpleasant (noxious) stimulus, is a stressor that can threaten homeostasis. The body 's adaptive response to pain involves physiological changes, which are useful and potentially life-saving in the initial stages. If the adaptive response persists, harmful and life-threatening effects may ensue.

If you can ' t breathe well, your body can ' t get enough oxygen to keep your red blood cells and tissues healthy. This can cause aches and pain all over your body. Other symptoms include: coughing

Body Aches: 15 Possible Causes

Pain motivates the individual to withdraw from damaging situations, to protect a damaged body part while it heals, and to avoid similar experiences in the future. Most pain resolves once the noxious stimulus is removed and the body has healed, but it may persist despite removal of the stimulus and apparent healing of the body. Sometimes pain arises in the absence of any detectable stimulus, damage or disease.
