Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Book is totally engrossing. It is probably the closest thing to "full-contact-reading", because the reader must open "hidden" pages to find a royal party, must help the main character escape through a hole in the page, and must flip the book upside down and back up again to read certain parts.

Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Book?: Lauren Child ...

'Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Book?' is a story about a little boy Herb, who didn't really take a good care of his books. It was always ok for him to eat while reading, making the pages dirty of food. He also liked drawing on the pages, and cutting off different characters just to play with them later.
